Instructors for this course.

Penny Bartley retired after nine years as the Executive Director of South Correctional Entity (SCORE Jail), in Des Moines, Washington. Penny created the initial proposal for SCORE, which was established in 2009, and is the only regional jail facility that is an independent government agency in the State of Washington. It provides jail services for seven member cities and numerous contract agencies in the metropolitan Seattle area. SCORE has a capacity of 802 inmates and handles more than 24,000 bookings per year. While she was Executive Director, SCORE became the first jail in Washington to receive accreditation through the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs (WASPC). SCORE also obtained accreditation through the National Commission on Correctional Healthcare (NCCHC) and successfully completed an audit for compliance with PREA standards.

Prior to the creation of SCORE, Penny worked for the Renton, Washington, Police Department where she ran the divisions responsible for jail operations, and the records and evidence functions for 15 years. She was also the Public Information Officer for the Department. Her early career including working for police departments in Lynnwood and Normandy Park, Washington.

Penny has a Master's Degree in Justice Administration from University of Alaska Fairbanks and a Bachelor's Degree in Law and Justice from Central Washington University. She is a Certified Jail Manager (American Jail Association) and a Certified Corrections Executive (American Correctional Association). Penny has been a presenter and instructor at local, state, and national conferences on a variety of correctional topics including facility construction, operations, liability, and working with advocacy organizations in jail settings.

Ross Bartley retired as a sergeant from the Seattle Police Department after 31 years of service. During the last nine years of his career, he was assigned to the Audit, Policy and Research Section supervising policy development, audits and inspections, and research projects. Ross was also the Departments CALEA Accreditation Manager leading a successful effort for reaccreditation in 2010. When SPD entered into a Settlement Agreement with the Department of Justice in 2012, Ross' duties became focused solely on the audit function. During the last three years, he was assigned as the Acting Lieutenant in command of the Audit, Policy and Research Section. Ross has attended law enforcement audit training conducted by the Los Angeles Police Department, completed the Law Enforcement Inspections and Auditing Certificate program (LEIAC), and has obtained DOJ certification as compliance auditor for the Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) standards.

Ross began his career in 1987 patrolling the Capitol Hill and Central District areas of SPD's East Precinct. Other career assignments include the Crime Analysis Unit, Sexual Assault and Child Abuse Unit, and the Training & Education Section where he supervised the post academy training for new officers, training programs for emergency vehicle operation, homeland security/terrorism, and other topics.

After raising four children and retiring from their careers in the Seattle area, Penny and Ross moved to their new home outside of Tucson, Arizona.
